

Family Separation Workshops

To coincide with the official launch of the Jersey Centre for Separated Families, we're delighted to be running two workshops for divorced or separated parents.

Workshop contents include... making the transitions: looking at the impact on you and helping you to work through the difficult issues that come with family separation... supporting your children: understanding your children's reactions and how best to support them in adjusting and adapting to the changes... making arrangements: helping you to put in place private agreements for parenting time and financial provision for children... building co-operation: new tools to help you work together and build a new co-operative parenting relationship...

The workshops will be run by Karen and Nick Woodall, co-authors of The Guide for Separated Parents: putting your children first (Piatkus 2009) and family separation experts with over 35 years experience between them. Karen is a family therapist and Nick is a therapeutic family mediator.
